

FREE FOOD FOR HEALTHCARE WORKERS AND FIRST RESPONDERS

Chipotle

Chipotle is delivering free burritos to health care facilities battling the pandemic. Although submissions to request the free service for medical teams have closed, you can still complete the form online with your email address and Chipotle will reach out if any slots open up.

"You are our heroes! Thank you for taking the time to reach out and request free burritos," Chipotle said.

Dunkin'

- Over the next few weeks, Dunkin' sampling vans will be visiting hospitals through the Northeast to distribute thousands of free cups of coffee and MUNCHKINS® donut hole treats to health care workers, bringing a small moment of relief to their busy days.
- To brighten the spirits of healthcare professionals, we've sent 4,000 pounds of Dunkin' ground coffee, 2,000 boxes of Keurig® K-Cup pods and 23,000 Dunkin' gift cards as part of special care packages to 85 hospitals across the country to-date, with more to come.

Starbucks

The deal: Starbucks has announced that "any customer who identifies as a first responder or frontline worker supporting our healthcare system" can get a free hot or cold tall brewed coffee on each visit.

When: Through May 3

Krispy Kreme

The deal: Every Monday, Krispy Kreme will give free donuts to healthcare workers. There doesn't appear to be a limit on what can be donated to healthcare workers (within reason, probably). "Just go to a Krispy Kreme drive-thru, tell us what you need, and show us your employer badge," the site says. "Pick up some free dozens on the way to work for you and your colleagues, or maybe a free dozen on your way home to family after a long shift."

When: Through May 12

Cumberland Farms

The deal: The convenience chain is offering free coffee to people helping battle the COVID-19 outbreak. People who can grab a free coffee any day of the week include "healthcare workers, first responders, and military personnel including police officers, firefighters, active military, paramedics, doctors, nurses, hospital and medical staff, and medical researchers."

When: Ongoing

Nando's PERi-PERi

The deal: Any "nurse, doctor, or healthcare worker" who stops into a Nando's with an ID or wearing a uniform gets free takeout.

When: Ongoing

Delta Sonic

The deal: Each Delta Sonic location with a brick oven will offer a free meal to "all doctors, nurses, EMTs, firefighters, and police officers with a valid ID."

When: Ongoing

Steak 'N Shake

The deal: The chain's new "We're All Essential" program is offering people in a ton of industries 20% off any Steakburger and/or order of Fries. That includes doctors, nurses, first responders, cashiers, flight attendants, grocery store employees, pharmacists, and others.

When: Through April 7

Tropical Smoothie Café

The deal: Medical professionals and first responders can contact their local Tropical Smoothie shop to have free smoothies delivered to your team.

When: Ongoing

Pizza vs. Pandemic

The deal: A partnership of three organizations, including local pizza shop delivery app Slice, is taking donations and suggestions for healthcare workers that could use a delivery of free pizza.

When: Ongoing

CIRCLE K

Healthcare workers and first responders can get free coffee, tea, and Polar Pop Fountain drinks through the end of April. Show a valid ID.

BP and AMOCO

Offering a discount of 50 cents off per gallon for first responders and health care workers the next time they fill up at BP or Amoco gas stations in the US.

To obtain the discount, first responders and health care workers can visit bp.com/localheroes. They will be asked to verify their identity through the website ID.me and will then receive a discount code via text or email that they can enter at the pump.

Discount codes will be offered until April 30 or until a "maximum value of one million dollars in cents per gallon discounts is reached," BP said. There's a limit of 2 discount codes per user and the codes expire by June 30.

The oil and gas company is one of many to offer free meals, shoes and other discounts to the medical workers who are risking their lives to treat people during the coronavirus pandemic.

Uber Eats

Uber Eats has pledged to give 300,000 free meals to first responders and health care workers in the U.S. and Canada. Uber also tweeted that it's offering discounted rides to some medical personnel.